Dear Friends:

One of our GED students shared something that has stuck with me. He was dragging his feet on taking his first test and through the support and persistence of our amazing team, they gave him the confidence to push through his fears. When he passed, he said to them, “You are the family that I wish I had”. What a double-edged sword. So hard to hear what we know to be true – that some of the people we serve don’t have the support that they need to succeed. But so wonderful to learn that we aren’t just helping people prepare for a test, but are also giving them a family and a place to belong.

This student’s words came back to me in February, when we posted a video on our Facebook Live for potential students. We asked a simple question. “Why Go It Alone?” Life is hard enough without feeling like you have to tackle challenges on your own. Look around, ask for help and often you will find support from unexpected places. Ask and ye shall receive, right? This student needed a support system – a family – and he found one at St. Vincent and Sarah Fisher Center.

If you are reading this newsletter, I truly hope that you have “liked” us on Facebook, because we have a lot of ongoing updates about our students, families and the Center. So much more about our family than what I can include here. So much activity, so much inspiration. To thank for that, we have to acknowledge our friends at Logos Communications and our own Information Manager, Patricia Wilson, who have really moved the Center forward through our social media program. By their efforts, we are reaching new audiences and as a direct result, the number of students and families we serve continues to grow. As does our enormously appreciated and talented Volunteer and Intern corps, through the efforts of our Director, Beth Kraft. Without the talented and selfless individuals that step up to help, we wouldn’t have been able to create the dynamic and inspiring extended family that we offer to those that want support. We’ve asked for support and we receive it. Daily.

So I ask are you or is someone you know “Going it alone?” Maybe we can help you find the support, acceptance, the inspiration or the family that you need to make it through your challenges. We are here, just ask if you need help.

Yours,

Diane Renaud

The Center has received some extraordinary assistance from some amazing groups in the past year and we thank you!

A group of City Year Americorp members were assigned to work at an area elementary school. While waiting for their assignment to begin, Team Leader Harrison Rosenfeld contacted the Center to find other opportunities to serve in the area. City Year's availability and mission fit perfectly with our Children's After-school Program and they began volunteering with us in September and continued through the whole semester. Their consistency and passion made a huge impact on our children including helping them to improve greatly in their skills.

John Claassen, a resident at senior community Independence Village, decided that he wanted to help children learn to read. A dream came true for the Center when a group of approximately 10 seniors from Independence Village began to work our Children's Summer Program. Every Wednesday, the children anxiously waited for “their” person to show up. The bonding was beautiful and touching. The progress of the kids was amazing. The Seniors returned to us in March and we are delighted to have them back! They have been missed!

The Quell Group has been volunteering for the Center's Harvest Festival since 2014, as part of their 20th anniversary celebration. Richard Kuhn and Jillian Rinke and other Quell Employees have been excited each year to come back (and bring candy) to make “Trick for a Treat” a fun learning experience for our kids. And we look forward to their participation every year!

Quicken Loans and their family of companies began a relationship with SVSF when a group came to help us at the 2016 End of Summer Luncheon for the Children's Program. They invited SVSF to speak at an informational session for their employees, resulting in regular attendance from some of their employees, who volunteer as tutors. Also, they have provided a group of Quicken Loans volunteers, headed by Katelyn Lalinsky, who are always willing to help with group requests or last minute needs. Her group has helped out by tutoring our children, donation sorting, decorating for the holidays and more.

APRIL is... Volunteer Appreciation Month!

Congratulations to the 2017 Volunteer of the Year – Ruth Nye-Hurst!

Ruth graduated with her Master of Education from Wayne State University. She taught High School math in the Detroit Public schools for over 25 years and is now retired. She and her husband Mark, are from the Farmington Hills area and have 3 cats. Ruth found our volunteer opportunities online and has thankfully been volunteering with the GED program since 2009.

An avid camper, Ruth loves to be outside and often visits Sleeping Bear Sand Dunes National Park, as well as going to the gym. Ruth tells us that she likes tutoring for our program, because she enjoys the students she works with and the other volunteers. As one of our resident math experts, we are deeply grateful for her devotion over the past six years!
